Everglades City is Developing a New Comprehensive Plan
Here are the Details From the Special Meeting on March 24th**
By Kathy Brock

The City of Everglades City has been working from a Comprehensive Plan that was adopted in 1990 and updated in 1993. In short, the City's plan is outdated.

What is a Comprehensive Plan? A Comprehensive Plan is both a direction-setting document, and a legally enforceable document.

The Comprehensive Plan must also be consistent with the Land Development Code (LDC). Once the Comprehensive Plan is changed, the LDC must also change to achieve that consistency.

How does a Comprehensive Plan effect businesses and residents? The comprehensive plan, also known as a general plan, master plan or land-use plan, is a document designed to guide the future actions of a community.

This includes guidance on how to make decisions on public and private land development proposals, the expenditure of public funds, cooperative efforts and issues of pressing concern, such as historic preservation or the rehabilitation of older neighborhood areas. Most plans are written to provide direction for future activities over a 10 to 20-year period after plan adoption.¹

In other words, this is very important to Everglades City business and property owners as these decisions will have a direct impact on you and our community.

The City of Everglades City is doing this so that their Comprehensive Plan is more current. Typically, municipalities review these plan every 5 years, ten years at the latest. This is a very over-due process but it is one that comes with some risk for those of us who live and work here as now is the time decisions will be made that could change some aspects codes, zoning and growth within the City.

Why now? The City is in the process of obtaining grants for things like the new sewer and wastewater plant. To qualify for those grants, the City must have a current Comprehensive plan.

Everglades City was awarded a grant to hire a firm to help write the Comprehensive Plan. The 2-hour long meeting at City Hall also included ZOOM video conferencing participants, including Ken Metcalf, a certified City Planner from the firm Stearns, Weaver, Miller (see: <https://www.stearnsweaver.com/attorneys/kenneth-metcalf/>). Mr. Metcalf is the consultant that has been hired to direct this process.

Other things that will be considered in this plan include actions that will be taken after the completion of a Sea Level Rise Vulnerability Evaluation. The firm will analyze our vulnerability to flooding (spoiler alert: we are vulnerable), and how to address that issue with building codes.

Other important decisions and changes could be made regarding Zoning, Density, Historic Preservation, Growth and uses of public land.

An important aspect of this process is surveying the community so that we have an opportunity to communicate any of our concerns to the City and Planner. The survey will be available at City Hall in Lisa's office (where you pay the water bill), and on the City website <https://www.cityofeverglades.org/public-notice>.

For anyone who cannot get to City Hall or print the forms on the website, I am putting the survey on page 6. You can answer the questions on page 6 and on your own paper as needed. Handwritten is fine as long as it is legible.

Remember, you may state any concerns or ideas that you might have in addition to the questions on the survey. The most important thing to do is participate and send in your responses. The future of our area is being planned. If you have ideas about the future of our community now is the time to act. Please take the survey on page 6!

July 2, 2022

It's never too early to put an amazing fireworks display, parade, and an all around great family day on your calendar!

This year's theme is Red, White & Blue, so use that for inspiration in designing your amazing parade float, golf cart or whatever your mind can think of!

This year's celebration will start with a "bang" promptly at 10 am. The full day's schedule is:

- 10:00 am: Opening Ceremony
- 10:30 am: Parade
- 11:00 am: Booths Open at McLeod Park
- 11:30 am: Kids Contests at Park
- 12:30 pm: Raffle Winners Announced
- 9:00 pm: Amazing Fireworks

The Everglades Lions Club will be providing hotdogs, chips and a beverage to those in attendance (at McLeod Park).

Each year the fireworks are paid for by generous donations taken in boxes placed in local businesses or those directly sent to the City for the festivities.

If you would like to contribute to this year's celebration, please send a check to the City of Everglades City, and put "fireworks" in the memo section. Mail it to PO Box 110, Everglades City, 34139. Thank you!

Great ESHP Golf Gala!

The Everglades Society for Historic Preservation (ESHP) held its March 18 fundraiser at the historic Naples Depot Museum with Lisa Resch, Chef and Owner of Carolina Catering Company, underwriting the Gala's delicious appetizers (including Gator Bites, Grouper Reuben, Grilled Flank Steak Chimichurri, Everglades Bread Crostini and much more) and cocktails. The evening included a silent and live auction emceed by pro golfer Michael "Ziggy" Zeigler interviewing PGA professional golfers Tony Kelley and Andy Bean.

The Society's President Patty Huff introduced the ESHP Board: Kathy Brock, Elaine Middelstaedt, Connie Barker, and Hydie Friend (pictured here with supporters) as well as the "Bank of Everglades Building" team members: Chris Hagan (ORCO), Phoebe Najera (MHK Architecture & Planning), Craig Woodward, Bob Bergin, Hannah Ineson, Paul & Eileen Arseneault, Liz & Clarke Swanson, and the newest member Lisa Resch.

The Gala's proceeds will benefit the Bank of Everglades building project.

ESHP was founded in 2004 and its mission is to preserve historic sites, structures, documents, artifacts, and memories within the Everglades area.

For more information about the organization, including upcoming events, visit www.save-boe.org or phone Patty Huff at (239) 719-0020.

Go slow, look out below; Manatees need your help
Submitted by FWC

As water temperatures warm, manatees naturally disperse from their winter habitats, traveling to other areas of the state and beyond. The Florida Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission (FWC) is asking Florida residents and visitors to help keep manatees safe, especially while out on the water.

Manatees are leaving their winter refuges and are more likely to be in rivers, canals and nearshore waters. Florida boaters are also enjoying the season, so it is crucial to stay alert and avoid manatees while traveling through Florida's waterways.

From April 1 through Nov. 15, seasonal manatee zones require boaters to slow down in certain areas to prevent manatees from being injured or killed by motorboats or personal watercrafts. Boat strikes are a major threat to Florida manatees. FWC law enforcement officers are on patrol in state waters to remind boaters of the seasonal manatee speed zones and take enforcement actions.

Manatees can be difficult to detect when they are underwater, so it is important for operators of boats and personal watercrafts to be vigilant.

You can help protect manatees by following these simple guidelines:

- ◆ Wear polarized sunglasses to help spot manatees.
- ◆ Avoid boating in shallow areas where manatees graze on seagrass.
- ◆ Look for large circles on the water, also known as manatee footprints, indicating the presence of a manatee below.
- ◆ Look for a snout sticking up out of the water.
- ◆ Follow posted manatee zones while boating.
- ◆ Never push a stranded manatee back into the water.
- ◆ Report injured, distressed, sick or dead manatees to the FWC's Wildlife Alert Hotline at 888-404-FWCC (3922) or by dialing #FWC or *FWC on a cellphone so trained responders can assist.

"We're asking the public to be exceptionally vigilant watching for manatees when out on the water, as the FWC and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service continue to respond to a high level of manatee deaths along Florida's east coast," said Michelle Pasawicz, Manatee Management Program Lead for the FWC. "By obeying speed zones, wearing polarized glasses and keeping a watchful eye on the water, you can make an immediate difference in manatee conservation."

Resources for boaters, educators and other interested members of the public are available at MyFWC.com/Manatee. Click the page's "Information & Guidelines" tab for helpful tips on respectfully viewing manatees, additional guidelines for boat and personal watercraft operators, and information on what you can do to help these amazing aquatic mammals.

To learn more about the manatee unusual mortality event, click on the "Learn More" on the top of the page at MyFWC.com/Manatee.

Are you interested in supporting the FWC's manatee research, rescue and management efforts? You can purchase a "Save the Manatee" Florida license plate, or donate $5 to receive an FWC manatee decal. Both are available from your local Tax Collector's office. The Fish & Wildlife Foundation of Florida has additional ways to help. Visit WildlifeFlorida.org for more information.

Spring is an active time for many of Florida's wildlife species. For more information on wildlife in Spring, visit MyFWC.com/News and click on "Spring Wildlife News".

Nesting Season is Here!
Submitted by FWC

Each spring and summer, thousands of sea turtles, shorebirds and seabirds nest on Florida's beaches. Because our state's shorelines are critical for sea turtle and waterbird nesting, beachgoers can make a big difference in helping them. Biologists note that some of the most important things people can do to help nesting sea turtles and waterbirds are to give them space, minimize disturbances and keep beaches clean and dark.

Sea turtles typically return to nest in March along Florida's southeast Atlantic coast from Brevard County south to Broward County, while nesting begins on Gulf Coast or north Florida beaches in April or May. Around this same time, many shorebird and seabird species nest directly on beaches across the state where their eggs and chicks are well camouflaged in the sand. Colonies of wading birds, such as herons, will typically nest on mangrove islands off the coast.

For more information about nesting sea turtles and how you can help, visit MyFWC.com/SeaTurtle or see the FWC's "Be a Beach Hero" brochure. Other ways to help sea turtles include reporting those that are sick, injured, entangled or dead to the FWC's Wildlife Alert Hotline at 888-404-FWCC (3922).

Sometimes people say the darndest things
By Pastor Bob Wallace

Have you ever had the problem of trying to explain something to someone who didn't quite understand what you were trying to tell them? They just gave you a funny blank look.

Well don't worry. There's nothing wrong with you. It happens to a lot of people all of the time.

Misunderstandings are a part of life. The secret is how to clear them up.

Someone said to me recently, "I just don't understand what you're saying to me."

Did I take offense?

No.

And there's no need for you to take offense either.

The problem may lie in the words you're using to express your thoughts. Or maybe you're just not clear in your own mind about what you're trying to say. The result is, your words come out of your mouth all muddled and your thoughts are mixed up.

So, what do you do?

Well, you certainly don't get mad! There are a lot worse things in life than getting frustrated because you aren't making yourself perfectly clear. Wars have been started over misunderstandings. And a lot of personal relationships have been shattered.

The best thing to do when someone tells you they don't understand is to have that person say back to you what they thought they just heard you say. If they do that, and you hear how they interpreted your words, then you will have the chance to retell what you wanted to say in the first place.

However, if what you said is not clearly expressed the first time, and your hearer cannot repeat what you said, then stop. Take a few minutes. Re-think what you wanted to say, and then say it again.

What you say the second time is oftentimes better expressed than what you said the first time.

Writers use this method. It's called editing.

Their thoughts often tumble forth and are put onto a blank page without giving much aforethought. That's why writers need a lot of editing before they are printed and published.

The same hold true with spoken words. Speakers should always be editing their thoughts before they are spoken. Once words leave a person's mouth they can never be recovered.

Just look around you and listen to how others express themselves.

Do you like what you hear?

Would you change what they are saying and how they are saying it?

Does the same hold true for you?

Would another person change what you say and how you say it?

Try to express yourself carefully by using precise and exact words for your thoughts so no one will have trouble understanding what you say.

Then, next time someone says, "Did I hear you right?" you can take comfort in the thought that they did hear you correctly. You meant exactly what you said.

And there's no doubt about it!

That's when meaningful conversation begins.

Living Gulf Coast by Charles Sobczak

Marsh Rabbit (Sylvilagus palustris) Other names: marsh hare / Status: FL=stable statewide but endangered in the Lower Keys, IUCN=LC / Length: 17 in (43 cm) / Height: n/a / Weight: 2.2-2.6 lb. (1-1.2 kg) / Life span: to 7 years / Reproduces: in abandoned burrows of gopher tortoises and armadillos or in dense thickets / Found: AC, coastal, near coast, mainland / Reproduces: year round / Months found: JFMAMJJASOND, marsh rabbits can breed all year round.

Commonly seen eating grass and other vegetation along trails and roadways, the marsh rabbit is the bread and butter of many of Florida's predators, especially bobcats, hawks, and owls. Although a member of the cottontail family, the marsh rabbit does not have a fluffy white tail. It has smaller ears than the cottontail and prefers wetter environments. The marsh rabbit will actually swim across tidal passes to inhabit other barrier islands. It ranges all the way north to Virginia and west to Alabama.

The marsh rabbit is a strict herbivore and eats a wide variety of vegetation. It is a game animal in Florida, as it is in most of its range. Because a subspecies, Sylvilagus palustris hefneri (named after Hugh Hefner of Playboy fame), located in the lower Florida Keys, is endangered, the marsh rabbit is not hunted south of the Everglades.

It would be easy to think that the marsh rabbit is also prone to roadkill, but in fact it is rare to see one hit by an automobile. Like the white-tailed deer, the marsh rabbit appears to be adapting to the automobile. Its primary cause of mortality is predation, including being taken by alligators when swimming.

Editors Note: Marsh rabbit numbers are reducing dramatically in the Everglades and pythons are responsible for 71% of predation. Read more details about rabbit predation in ENP: <https://royalsocietypublishing.org/doi/10.1098/rspb.2015.0120>

Here's What's Happening At The Museum of Everglades

First opened in 1927 as a commercial laundry, the building that now houses Museum of the Everglades is one of the historic structures still standing as a testament to the town's time as a once-bustling center of business and the region's first County seat.

The Museum of the Everglades is open Tuesday—Saturday from 9am to 4 pm.

Now—May 28th

Rooted in Agriculture Museum of the Everglades

“Rooted in Agriculture” explores farming and agricultural enterprises as the foundation of non-indigenous settlement in the Everglades. From the Union-controlled pioneer farms feeding the garrison at Ft. Taylor to vegetable picking and packing operations that grew to serve the nation, the story of the area’s growth and development is synonymous with farming and food growing.

The Other Side of “Progress:”
The Tamiami Trail’s Dark Legacy
April 21, 2022, 2:00 pm—3:00 pm

Although the construction of a highway across the Everglades in the mid-1920s is still celebrated as a miracle of modern engineering, the devastating effects this edifice would have on both the ecosystems of the Everglades and the culture of the region’s indigenous people is often overlooked. This day-before-Earth-Day presentation will explore the unfortunate effects of the road’s creation as well as the long history of schemes to drain the Everglades and recent efforts to reverse the damage done.

—————> Event
94th Anniversary of the Tamiami Trail Celebration/
Museum Birthday Party
April 23, 2022, 10:00 am—2:00pm

This annual celebration of the completion of the iconic Tamiami Trail features a dedication speech at Everglades City Hall, Laundry Cart Races in front of the Museum of the Everglades, live music, lunch served at McLeod park, and birthday cake (the Museum of the Everglades officially opened on the 70th anniversary so it is considered the museum’s “birthday”) served at the museum.

Some events require reservations. Please make reservations online at colliermuseums.com OR by calling the museum at 239-252-5026 during museum hours, Tuesday – Saturday. 9am-4pm. Thank You!

EVERGLADES CITY SCHOOL NEWS

By Melissa Owens

Everglades City School had a very successful spring book fair thanks to the incredible generosity of the Everglades City community. Our community partners stepped up like never before to support our school! First, the Collier County Police Activities League sponsored every single pre-K through fifth grade student! Thanks to the leadership of Deputy Sue Gentry, the CCPS PAL shopped with the students on Tuesday, March 8th. They also purchased books for our secondary top readers!

Then, we had an overwhelming response from the Everglades City community to sponsor our classroom libraries and the school library. Every single classroom and EVG’s library were sponsored. These sponsors purchased new and exciting books hand selected by our teachers to meet the literacy needs of their students!

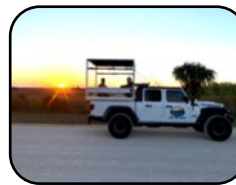

We wish to thank the following for their sponsorship:

- ◆ Camellia Street sponsored pre-K and fifth grade
- ◆ Island Café sponsored kindergarten
- ◆ Trial Lakes Campground sponsored first grade
- ◆ The Carroll Group/REMAX Partners sponsored second grade
- ◆ Rockcan Handyman, LLC. & Down South Airboats sponsored the third grade
- ◆ Everglades City Airboat Tours sponsored fourth grade
- ◆ Bob Wells Real Estate sponsored our middle school
- ◆ Everglades City Book/Coffee Club sponsored our high school
- ◆ The Everglades City Lions Club sponsored the EVG school library

The Island Life Recipes

Exceptionally Delicious Baked Pineapple by Sally Heflebower

Ingredients:

- 2-20 oz cans of crushed pineapple*
- 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 2 cups white sugar*
- 1 cup butter, softened
- 8 eggs
- 10 slices of white bread (can substitute rolls or hotdog/hamburger buns), torn into pieces, about 8 cups

Directions:

Cream together butter and 1 cup of the sugar. Beat in eggs one at a time. Stir in cinnamon, add torn bread and crushed pineapple into mixture. Put in a 9 x 13 x 2 baking dish. Bake at 350° for approximately 1 hour. It should be bubbly and slightly browned.

*I used fresh pineapple. To do this, cut up the pineapple into very small pieces and mix it with 1 cup of the sugar, 1/2 cup of water and let it stand for about 30 minutes. You can also prepare the pineapple the day before using the same method above, and continue on with the recipe as shown. This is exceptionally delicious!

My Little Slice of Paradise
By Kathy Brock

I grew up and spent many of my adult years in Broward County Florida. Hollywood to be exact.

Today, there are about 1.9 million in Broward, and just over 150,000 who call Hollywood home.

I lived in the same home as an adult as I did as a kid. In fact, I lived there for 41 of my first 58 years.

Tim and I first bought a home in Everglades City in 1993, and we have been full time residents since 2017. What is so amazing to me is that in this tiny little town (the three islands) which is only about 6 % of the size of Hollywood, more community involvement takes place right HERE. And, what surprises me even more is that I know more people here than I ever did in my former hometown.

On any given day there are people volunteering all over town. The Everglades Area Visitor Center, Thrift Store, Food Pantry, Lions Club, and area Churches all have something happening for and with the community. In a few weeks the Lions will be rehabbing the mulch and pulling weeds at McLeod Park. Tony Pernas and another group are taking care of the trees in the medians.

During pantry days (Wednesday, 10:30 to noon), there are volunteers who come in that deliver food to those in need who have no transportation. It honestly never stops.

When my father first started coming here after my mother passed away in the mid 1990's he would come during the week so Tim & I could come on the weekends. Then, little by little he started staying for longer periods and I would joke with him that he was moving out "one pair of shorts at a time".

Then, one day he stopped returning to Hollywood telling me he was no longer comfortable there and he moved to E-City permanently. At the time I found that statement curious. How could you be "uncomfortable" in a place you spent over 60 years in? Now, I understand.

Although there are some things I miss, like my dear friend and neighbor, Emily, the city itself not so much.

The few things I still have a connection to, like the sports teams I grew up following, I still follow! But the building I called "home" for over 41 years is not something I yearn for. I am "home". Small, well, tiny, suits me. Being in a place where we all know each other's names is comforting. Seeing the teams of volunteers working together for a common cause is heartwarming and it keeps your eyes on the important stuff...the little things.

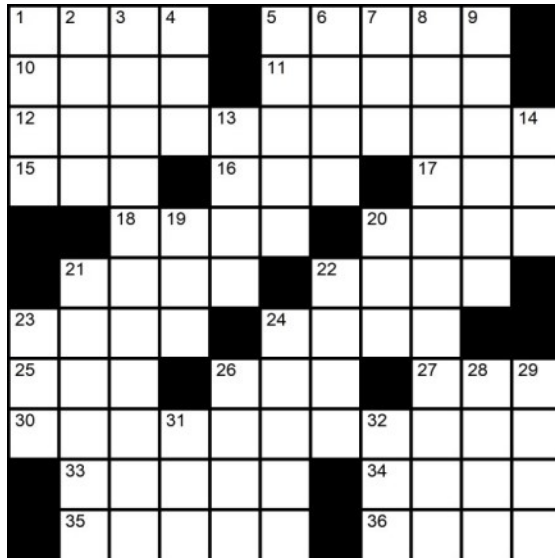

As world events and national headlines push more and more calamity, don't forget to find your happy place and stay focused on the little things that make your life "your life".

I am so thankful for the fateful day in March of 1993 that we found our home...it just took us a few years to retire and get here permanently.
