Lee MPO Presentation on their Rail Feasibility Study – Multi Modal Corridor

Objective:

To discuss Lee County’s findings on their Rail Feasibility Study.

Considerations:

Lee County Metropolitan Planning Organization (MPO) Staff have been working on a study to determine the benefit of the long term feasibility of implementing public multi-modal transportation options within the rail corridor in Lee County, while maintaining and possibly expanding freight service in the corridor. The multimodal options include running commuter rail transit, light rail transit, bus rapid transit and/or a multiuse path from the Charlotte County line through Lee County into northern Collier County.

Recommendation:

None.
